
We are currently seeking to fill the following position:

Research Analyst
(based in Montreal)

Main Job Responsibilities:

- conduct independent research on directed/non-directed topics
- generate independent research ideas
- contribute to the development of models and technology-driven analytical tools
- provide regular briefs/written contribution to publications on financial and economic developments
- support production team
- work toward providing original research

Vital Skills:

- an honors BA in economics (or related discipline)
- one to two years' experience in a related field
- excellent spoken and written English

Assets:

- good quantitative and forecasting skills
- creativity and imagination
- proven communication skills

The ideal candidate will be entrepreneurial, curious, bright, highly motivated, independent and a self-starter. Good common sense and the ability to manage stress is crucial. An active interest in the financial markets would be an asset.

This position, offers an attractive compensation package with rapid professional development in a challenging and intellectually stimulating work environment.

Qualified candidates should forward a C.V. and cover letter to:

Pina Vaccaro,

E-mail: recruiting@bcaresearch.com

Check out our site at: www.bcaresearch.com

Established in 1949, The Bank Credit Analyst Research Group (BCA Research) is a leading independent provider of international investment research. One of the world's oldest and largest financial market research firms, BCA's in-depth analyses and pointed forecasting of global capital markets, business conditions and investment prospects have earned it a world-renowned reputation for reliability, editorial independence and integrity. With its stable of highly respected monthly publications, weekly strategy services, daily online research as well as customised research and consulting, BCA serves a diverse clientele of prominent financial institutions in over ninety countries worldwide.
